

What she knows

George Blakely

George & Irma

An early scene in which Irma laments to George about her doubts of ever finding someone to love.

The sun does rise and set

Day to day it glows

Followed by the moon's ascent

This is what she knows

The rain falls somewhere each day

Other places it snows

The oceans waves lap at a bay

This is what she knows

Babies are born

And play with their toes

Old men's death we mourn

This is what she knows

But when will love come to me

Life's uncertainty doth throw

Hoping for to see

What she does not know
